Biggest Wednesday in the Recent History of Indiana State Fairs.

Figures for the Past Six Years Show that Yesterday's Attendance Beat the Record-Sheep, Pigs and Poultry-The Races.

At the fair yesterday the children of Tuesday gave way to children of a larger growth, and the finances of the agricultural board waxed exceeding fat. A year ago the receipts were considered big, but yesterday's topped them about $000, owing, probably, to the improved weather. Yesterday there wasn't a cloud in the sky, and the sun blazed away with a 95° caliber power that caused everything to run dry but the never-failing supply of lemonade, which may grow weaker, but is ever ready for the thirsty. A drought in lemonade is something unheard of at a fair. The grandstand was the center of attraction yesterday afternoon, and after the races were well under way it was pretty nearly filled, the crowd being estimated at five thousand. The almost endless displays attracted interested attention, and the uncomfortably hot weather does not appear to shake in the slightest degree the determination of the visitors to see all that is to be seen.

The sheep and swine display this year is exceptionally large and fine. Wilson Bros., of Muncie, show Cotswold and Southdown sheep that have taken premiums on many a hard-fought field. W. U. Noble, of Richfield, O., has some handsome Southdowns. and Sid Conger, of Flat Rock, will push some of the sheep-raisers pretty hard for premiums. The Pine Grove stock farm of Skipper & Collett, at Denver, Ind., is also among the prominent sheep exhibitors. while R. D. Williamson, of Xenia, O., bas a few in the lists that may wear ribbons.

I. J. Williams & Sons, of Muncie, and John F. Thompson & Sons, of Marion, show some fine Shropshire sheep.

"Oh, look at the red hogs," shouted a delighted youngster.as he caught sight, yesterday, of some Duroc-Jerseys in the swine department. Of this breed A. Ingram, of Perry, Ill., and S. E. Morton, of Camden, Q., show some great specimens, the former calling his the Pioneer and the latter the Ohio herd. B. W. Harvey, of Bloomingdale, Ind., has a herd of Chester whites that is greatly admired by people well versed in everything that goes to make up a prize hog. J. Conningham & Co., of Bunker Hill, Ind., has some valuable Poland Chinas in the and A. J. Lovejoy & Son, of Roscoe, show English Berkshires of as good breed as seen here in many years. Colt & Barrett, of Logansport, are confident they will capture some premiums on their Logan herd of Berkshires. Among the Holstein-Friesian cattle shown is a fine herd by William Borroughs & Son, of Losantville, Ind., who have taken many a premium LOTS OF FINE CHICKENS. The poultry department is in better shape than ever before, and the display is larger than last year's, which was regarded as unusually complete. Heretofore it has stock with the chickens, but this year the departments have been separated, and the former is over near the implement display. The Brahma and Buft Cochin chickens are numerous and of splendid breed, while the Leghorn class is the largest ever seen at any show in the State. There are a num-ber of pea-fowis on exhibition, and a four-legged Black Wyandotte chicken, owned by T.M. Campbell, of Darlington, Ind., attracts much attention. It flops its two superfluous legs behind it in a ludicrous fashion and appears to be in a surprised state of mind all the time, as is eminently bentting a chicken with something it has no use for, and yet is compelled to drag around a lifeand yet is compelled to drag around a lifetime. Indianapolis is well represented in this department, John R. Fohl, Emrich &

Drechsel showing as pretty lots of Buff
Cochins as any one would care to see. Sid
Conger, of Flat Rock, shows Barred
Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Light
Brahmas. R. L. Moffett, of Ogden, Ind., has some Silver Wyandottes; Einford &
Hale, of Shelbyville, some Partridge
Cochins; Hallen, of Bloomingdale, Light
Brahmas, and J. O. Sears of Knights. Brahmas, and J. O. Sears, of Knightstown, a very large display of White Plymouth Rocks. About the prettiest chickens in the lists are shown by John C. Scholler, of Franklin. They are Golden Wyandottes, and beauties, too. There never has been a finer lot of turkeys and geese shown. J. O. Sears, of Knightstown. has on exhibition some White Holland turkeys that will be wearing blue ribbons to-day, and Mrs. W. A. Benford, of Wheat-land, has a pair of old turkeys the largest of which will weigh thirty pounds easily enough, and by Thanksgiving will run his weight up to fifty pounds. He sported a blue ribbon yesterday with the air of a conqueror and the grace of an oldtimer who was accustomed to such marks ing. The judges finished their work in the poultry department last evening, and the ribbons will all be up this morning. The cut-flower display, yesterday, had many visitors. It was very fine, there being a notable improvement in the exhibit of carnations. This flower is giving the rose a hard race for supremacy in the affections of the people, and the varieties shown yesterday were remarkably and attractive. There were fewer designs this year than last, and the space was given over to the far more interesting array of cut flowers. What designs were exhibited showed elaborate workmanship. Most of the Indianapolis florists were represented by handsome dis-INSANE HOSPITAL EXHIBIT. In the southeast corner of the main building, up stairs, is the first exhibit ever made at a fair of work done by the patients of the Central Hospital for lusane. It comprises rugs, fancy lates, ornaments, skirts, tidies, throws and similar articles, many of which were made by the most hopelessly demented of the unfortunate wards of the State. This display is curiously examined by all familiar with its nature. Superintendent Wright, of the Central hospital, had fifty of his patients at the fair yester-day and sent a wagon load of lunch to them at noon. They remained all day and appeared delighted with the sounds and sights which are almost enough at times to drive a sane man crazy. Dr. Wright had thirty of the patients at the circus. Tuesday and thinks he will have another delegation at the fair to-day. The races were interesting and continued until dark, it requiring five heats to decide the 2:40 trot and six to settle the 2:30 pace. The last-mentioned race was a hard fought affair, and though Archie White won it, he was hard pushed from start to finish. He met some pretty good ones in the class and they gave him about all he could attend to. In the first heat finish he was barely a nose in front of Landlord, and many people in the grand stand thought it a dead heat. Allie C. captured the second heat, but had to break the track record to do it, pacing the mile in 2:224. He was drawn after the heat, his owner evidently not earing to The 2:30 pace; purse, $500, divided: Archie White. g. g., G. Grimes, Georgia M , s. m., G. B. Rinker, Landlord, br. r., J. I. Keener.

Paris, 111. Dr. Time-2:32, 2:31¹2, 2:31, 2:31, 2:30. The receipts thus far are about $100 in excess of last year's. Treasurer Johnson estimates that Barnum's circus knocked them out of about $500 Tuesday. He has been treasurer of the board six years, and has prepared a statement showing the receipts for Tuesday and Wednesday during that period. The figures are as follows: Tuesday—1885, $1,263; 1886, $1,264; 1887, $1,438; 1888, $848; 1889, $1,760; 1890, $3,309; 1891, $2,801. Wednesday—1885, $2,474; 1886, $3,553; 1887, $3,900; 1888, $3,047; 1889, $2,490; 1890, $4,-646; 1891, $5,271.

Thus it will be seen that yesterday was the best Wednesday in the history of Indiana State fairs. Last year the receipts for this day were regarded as phenomenally large, but this time they are looked upon as immense, and the board was correspondingly happy last evening as a delegation of strong men staggered under the weight of three large sacks filled with money, which they were taking to the bank. With a continuance of the present sort of weather it is thought that to-day's attendance will be enormous and that the receipts will sail away out of sight of those of any previous Awards were made up to last evening as STATE FAIR EXHIBITS. Yesterday everything was in complete order, and visitors were received with cheerful faces by the exhibitors, who felt reheved and contented after finishing their arduous task of arranging and rearranging their respective wares.

For Nearly Thirty Years. For nearly thirty years Albert Gall has been selling carpets, wall-papers and draperies in this city, and his name and that of his establishment are household words all over Indiana.

Mr. Gall has never failed to keep up with all that is latest and best in his line of business, and the people have never been disappointed in looking to him for all that is new and artistic in decorations. He has never followed, but has always led in the introduction of new things.

One fact concerning his establishment is especially well known. This is that nothing is ever misrepresented, but all goods from the cheapest to the highest-priced are displayed in their true colors and al-Mr. Gall employs none but union mehis establishment and in consequence only the best work comes from his house, During the State fair period he is specially pleased to welcome visitors and show them through his establishment, 17 and 19

West Washington street, whether they wish to buy or not. For Many Years The Connersville Buggy Company has held its own at the State fair, as well as at the county fairs, but this year the premiums they have received are more than satisfactory, having received first premium at Marion, Danville, Ill.; Crawfordsville, Ind,: Greencastle, Rushville, and many other places. At this fair they come to the front with one of the lightest top buggy made—five-eighths job speeding wagon—and sold it to this dealer.

Mr. Henry Tucker, of Logansport, the first buggy sale made on the fair grounds. No one should fail to see this exhibit, at the old stand, near west side of main building. Mr. La Duque, the genial travel-ing salesman, will be on band, happy to wait on all of his old customers and as many new ones that want to be made happy. Mr. Bower, the superintendent, stuffed and mounted animals, Miss Laura Inger-soll, first. Lunch set not embroidered. Mrs. Dille, Greensburg, first; Mrs. Kirk, Shelbyville, will also be there, ready to put on all the new improvements that the dealer may want. Don't fail to call on them.

> A Patent Gravel Dumper. The American people are averse to putting bone labor into any work which can be got rid of by any sort of a contrivance. The Patent Office is evidence of this and yet all find enough to do. The unloading of loads of gravel, etc., from wagons is hard, back-aching work by the old shovel method and all devices hitherto made known are unsatisfactory. The Patent Gravel Dumper which was patented March 3, 1885, by Martin Magenbeimer, of Mooresville, Ind., has now been so thoroughly tested that it filis a long-felt want in this direction. Those who examine the dumper on exhibition at the fair will see that it is all that the inventor claims for it, and will wonder that some other inventive genius has not had it in operation long ago. It is a simple expedient—so simple, indeed, that any boy who can drive a team can unload a wagon filled with gravel, sand or earth of any in a minute's time, without stopping the team. The proprietor is now prepared to sell territory. State and county rights will be disposed of on most reasonable terms. The beds in which the invention consists sell for $15 each. When street improvements and grading is being done on an extensive scale this invention will prove to be worth hundreds and even thousands of dollars to contractors, as it will save the labor of many men and do in a minute what it will take several men five or ten minutes to do. Those who are moving large quantities of soil or dirt of any kind should examine the grand dumper, since to examine will most likely lead them to purchase a right and thus secure the invention. which will give them the advantage in all competitive work. The proprietor can be seen on the fair grounds, where his inven-tion is on exhibition. Do not conclude that this is a matter of no importance, but so and examine it. Persons who want to make money should secure county rights at Grand Central Business College Of this city, located at Nos. 92, 94 and 96 North Meridian street, have a handsome display of specimen work in the north wing, second floor of main hall. The booth occupied by them is a haven of artistic penmanship, representing scroll-work, animal drawing and life-like pictures of men of renown, and general business writing. The share of attention this exhibit is drawing fully compensate the proprietors, Prof. C. C. Koerner and W. W. Bennett, for the ardons labor they have been put to in bringing about as fine a display in this line as has ever been shown. This school employs the finest penman in the country, who is no less a personage than Mr. Bennett himself, giving practical illustration of his executions at the fair by writing out cards, to order, without expense to any one who may be fortunate enough to be present. The college is the only one using the Bryant & Stratton method of book-keeping, universally known to be the best extant, and in fact the entire system. for an actual business training, is superior to anything offered, and backed by a faculty that ranks of the highest proficiency. In conclusion it should be said that Professor Bennett, known as the prince of penmen of the world, who attends the exhibit, will be pleased to give an exhibition of his unexcelled skill in penmanship. The building occupied by this lasti-tution is one of the finest in the city, and the manner in which it has been furnished indicates that it has been done by an outlay regardless of expense.

Bertermann Brothers. As usual, again lead the profession in artistic designs and general floral displays. Without their display Floral Hall would be completely in a devoid state, and visitors would consider half their time and money lost if they were not represented. Since Mr. Bertermann has returned from Europe he has gained new ideas pertaining to his business and imparting this new-found knowledge with his customers and everyone | she could not sit in an ordinary arm-chair.

of the country, and visitors streamed all day long and stood in knots evoking their praise and delight.

Victory Buggy-Works, Represented by F. M. Simmons, has an eye-catcher in the way of a huge eagle painted on a large canvass stretched above the display at northeast entrance, ground floor, of main hall. The latest and best make in carriages, jump seats, phaetons and buggies comprise the exhibit, for which the board seemed wise enough to allot sufficient space, and which receives the undivded attention of visitors, be-stowing the highest praise in the most landatory tones. Their warerooms are located at 179 East Washington street. where a complete and extensive stock of vehicles are always to be seen.

Photography Is elaborately displayed in a booth near the north wall of the second floor by J. H. Clark, the leading photographer, located at 66 East Washington street. From the exquisite exhibit made by this enterprising photographer and the general attention it attracts, it would seem the fair would be decidedly incomplete, being really worth a small admission fee in itself to see. The entire space ensconced in partitions is almost too small for this exposition of art photography, but what there is of it has been taken advantage of, to bring about the best possible effect. On one side of the room the walls are covered with beautiful pastel work, which, in the way of art and exquisite finish, cannot be easily duplicated. Opposite of this cabinets in numerous variety divide the attention of viseral favor is attested by callers eager to ask for a card giving the address of this house to be used as a reminder when ready to have a photograph taken, which, in point of price embraced, allows everyone to enjoy this luxury.

Indianapolis Business University, Located in the When Block, through the able and energetic proprietors and managers, Messrs. Heeb & Osborn, a most creditable display has been made on the second floor, north wing, representing the different productions of work by students attending this school. The dipping noise of the type-writers actively engaged in turning out copy can be heard from afar 19c, all odors, regular price and the speed in which they perform it would seem lightning could not accomplish a greater rapidity. The enrollment of scholars attending this popular institution last year aggregated 416. This year they have been entering at the rate of thirty a week and increasing with each successive week, demonstrating the high estimate they are held in by the eye of the public.

The school employs ten members for their permanent faculty, all of the highest order, imparting book-keeping, business practice, short-hand, type-writing and commercial law. It is one of the most recommendation of the highest order, and the school of the highest order. law. It is one of the most progressive schools in the West, having had forty-two years of uninterrupted success.

Jersey Ouffee, Which has already become known to every household in the city and State since its short career on the market, is dispensed in liquid form on the main thoor of Exposition Hall. Although every provision was thought to have been made to sample was thought to have been made to sample out enough of the precious liquid in their dainty cups, they nevertheless fell short in supplying the demand. Many a one after having disposed of a cupful smacked his lips for more and eagerly took to a sample package that was handed to everyone who applied, to take home for a repetition of the act they had just gone through. We could bet almost anything that after these people get home the first dash they will make is to ask their grocer for Jersey coffee, and woe unto him if he should happen not to have unto him if he should happen not to have it in stock, the demand already created being tremendous.

The Cleaveland Fence Company, recently reorganized, is again on hand with a handsome display of lawn and field fences on the grounds, immediately west of the George Marrott, the popular shoe-dealer, 22 East Washington street, displays an exquisite line of footwear on the second floor, near the south stair-case. It is the first exhibit ever made by Mr. Marrott, but from the manner his display attracts it indicates that he knows how to do it. The goods on exhibition are all taken out of stock, and not specially ordered to suit the occasion, being universally known for keeping none but highclass goods, and serving his customers best by giving full value for their money.

Dentistry Is represented by the New York Steam Dental Company on north side of south stairway, second floor. The display embraces artificial teeth and other art work pertaining to it, attracting all who are interested to a high degree. By way of amusement the manager, Dr. Herron, has a set of teeth in motion (chewing) operated by electricity, evoking hearty laughter by all passers-by. The exhibit would have been greatly enhanced would room have permitted it, but suffice it to say what there is of it is good. The dental parlors, located in the Grand Opera-house Block, represent the largest in the State.

The Feeney Farniture and Stove Company, Although not represented at the fair, are nevertheless displaying a handsome line of furniture and their celebrated Garland stoves at their store-room, No. 81 West Washington street. To this attention of those who appreciate the wonderful improvements, and the great reduction in the prices of all the goods which go to make the home comfortable, cozy and attractive, is called, and should call if they do not want to miss part of the show. If the display of this house could be compared with the household furniture and cooking apparatus of fifty years ago, one would think that their fathers and mothers knew nothing of real civilization and genuine comfort. The happy home is the highest excellence on earth, and the goods in which this house abounds afford the foundation for such a home, as happiness and discomfort cannot go together. The house has a reputation throughout the country for fair dealing, low prices and enterprise.

the great Tanglewood Jersey dairyman. is on hand again in Exposition Hall under band stand, with his famous Jersey lunch. dealing out delicious coffee, served with pure Jersey cream, and milk, the choicest in the world, ice cold.

Paul Krauss,

the leading haberdasher, 44 and 46 East Washington street, decided to make his display at his store, and give everybody chance to see his goods free of charge, thereby giving all the benefit of viewing high class goods not every day presented. All the seasonable ladies' and men's furnishings are profusely exhibited and streams of people are passing in and out his doors, eager to feast their eyes on a rare treat.

The Next Congress.

Washington Special. The next Congress will be an essentially 'do-nothing" Congress. The House will sit day after day listening to endless speeches from the more than one hundred new members. Every man who wants to talk will be given ample chance to do so next year. So much has already been decided upon by the older Democratic members of the House.

Letting the new men talk, they argue, will please them and their constituents, and so long as they are talking and getting ready to talk they will not be framing awkward bills. And how to meet the many "awkward" bills that the new men will bring forward and how to dispose of them without hurting their feelings, will be really a delicate work for managers of the majority in the next House,

No Anarchists in the Alliance. Interview with President Polk.

"How about that other report, that there has been formed an inside circle in the Kansas Alliance whose object is bloodshed, fire and anarchism?" "So far as I know, that is another lie of some highly-imaginative and malicious mind, and I would certainly know something about it if there was any truth in it. No more peacefully-inclined, industrious, hard-working, patriotic set of men can be found anywhere in the Union than the Kansas farmers who compose the Kansas Farmers' Alhance. If anything, I would be more likely to think that the allegation might be turned just the other way. But, as regards the future, there is no telling what men may be forced to if they cannot obtain their just demands in a peaceful way, and you know the Kansas farmers have had a particularly hard struggle in securing a little green spot on this earth for a home for their wives and families."
